navigation bar title for a modal view controller I want to set navigation bar title of my modal view controller from another view controller in Swift 3. I set the title of navigation bar to a variable in the view controller which is presented by the modal view controller. But I can't set the navigation bar title of the modal view controller. This is my code in the first view controller: class SwitchListViewController: UITableViewController { var titleText = String() } override func tableView(tableView: UITableView, didSelectRowAtIndexPath indexPath: NSIndexPath) { if let cell = tableView.cellForRowAtIndex(indexPath) { let vc = UIStoryboard(name:
"main", bundle: nil).instantiateViewControllerWithIdentifier("EditListVC") as EditListViewController self.presentViewController(vc, animated: true, completion:
nil) } } override func prepareForSegue(segue: UIStoryboardSegue, sender: AnyObject?) { if let vc = segue.destinationViewController as?
EditListViewController { vc.titleText = "New List" self.navigationItem.setTitle(vc.titleText) object, if I know the types of the fields of the parent object? For instance, I would like to get a User object which had the same properties of a Student object, but I don't want to copy-paste all the fields of the Student class. I guess it is possible, but since I'm not really familiar with reflection, I'm not sure how. Thanks a lot. A:

You'd have to actually write this yourself. You can use `sun.reflect.generics.reflectiveObjects.ParameterizedType`, as suggested by others, but it will give you access to every public, non final, non static field of your Student class, not just those you want, and it doesn't help you figure out what it's name is, or whether it has a default value. What you are asking for is a kind of polymorphism, and you can find classes that will do exactly that, and indeed any wrapper that you generate will actually have full access to the fields and methods of the wrapped class. What your goal really is is to work out the "shape" of the object, which is knowable, and then copy it as a "new" object, which can be
