- A New Fantasy Action RPG Based on the Success of Diablo III. [What is Fantasy Action RPG?] We have come a long way from an open-ended RPG like Kingdom Hearts and a dungeon crawler like Okami (your character will face large-scale and small-scale enemies alike in a dynamic combat environment). The new world, the Lands Between, which is a curious mixture of a real place and a strange world, has been created. Your character will be able to explore and adventure in the splendid world in a fantasy action RPG battle on all levels. The world of Majesty:

- When you explore the world of Majesty, the lands on the far side of the Lands Between are dazzlingly viewed.
- Heroes of a variety of races and occupations appear, setting out into the world to live together on the lands on the far side of the Lands Between.
- Characters will be able to freely combine various items, and customize their appearance as they want.
- On your journey, you will receive loot from various battles.
- The world is filled with a vast number of challenges.
- Knights, merchants, warriors, and adventurers appear on the screen. Battles will be dynamic and wide ranging, and the battle map will be more than sufficiently advanced.
- Additionally, the game makes use of the features of the Xbox One, such as the Interactive TV to let you select the map you wish to visit or interact with the characters in 3D. This new world has a dramatic, novel feel to it. The world is a huge map with a vast number of dungeons, and through a variety of quests, you will meet a wide range of characters, accept quests, and make your way forward. The Lands Between have an incredible structure. It is a world made up of mountains, forests, seas, and desert, and has a vast number of structures.
- The Lands Between are shrouded in mystery. They are places that are protected by monsters, and they are more than mountains.
- The Lands Between are filled with huge dungeons, and there are countless monsters that inhabit them.
- The Lands Between have a mysterious feel to them, and they provide a breathtaking, awesome backdrop, filled with traps, monsters, and obstacles.

Q: Connecting to Windows Server 2008 using different machine name I have a Windows Server 2008 machine running DNS. The box only has 1 IP address (as I am using DHCP). I have another Windows Server 2008 R2 machine which has 2 IP addresses. Is there any way to connect to the above Windows Server 2008 machine using the 2nd machine so that it does not use the actual IP address? For example, I want to connect using the 2nd machine using some name: \Machine2\Machine1 A: If the Windows Server 2008 box has a static IP, then it can't communicate using DHCP as you say, so you need to use a fixed address which it knows: Server2 Computer name is Machine2 Server2 IP address is 192.168.1.2 Windows Server 2008 computer name is Server1 Server1 IP address is 192.168.1.1 Log onto Server2, click Run, type ping -n 192.168.1.1 and press enter. If Server2 can ping 192.168.1.1, then you're good to go. Q: What's wrong with my proof of  $|\tan \theta - \theta| < \frac{\pi}{2}$ ? I have to prove  $|\tan \theta - \theta| < \frac{\pi}{2}$ . I started with the equation  $\theta = \tan \theta$  which is  $1 - \tan^2 \theta = \sec^2 \theta - 1 = \cos^2 \theta - 1$  Which gives me  $|\tan \theta - \theta| = |1 - \cos^2 \theta| < \cos \theta < \frac{\pi}{2}$  Then I proceeded to multiply by two and I got the final inequality which I didn't understand why I did that.  $|\tan \theta - \theta| = |2 - 2 \cos^2 \theta| < 2 - 2 \cos^2 \theta = 2 - 2 \cos^2 \theta$  and I had to prove  $2 - 2 \cos^2 \theta < \pi$  which is not true as it is  $2 - 2 \cos^2 \theta < \pi$  but  $2$
