**The Topology tools** The Topology tools are the raster editing tools that enable you to edit various aspects of images, such as shapes, patterns, and edges. They include the Pen tool, the Lasso tool, the Magic Wand tool, and the Selection Brush. You can draw a selection using any of these tools. However, these tools enable you to work with selections that contain multiple objects that can be cut out and moved or changed into anything you desire. * * * **NOTE** To keep the learning process as simple and uncluttered as possible, I'll be referencing only the basic functions of the Topology tools. See the book's Photoshop documentation for more details on advanced editing techniques. The Pen tool is the easiest to use and enables you to draw shapes and paths for use in the Lasso tool and Selective Blending tools. When you click to the right of the Pen tool, the Hot Corners tool enables you to easily add diagonal lines, rectangles, circles, ovals, and other shapes. The Lasso tool enables you to quickly make selections that you can define with different sizes, shapes, and paths. Figure 1.6 shows the Lasso tool with a freehand shape and a polygonal path that looks similar to a hyperlinked chain email or text. **FIGURE 1.6 These shapes are created by selecting different tools from the Tools menu. You can make selections by changing the Lasso tool's shape or path.** The Magic Wand tool enables you to select an area to be filled with either color or black. The exact area depends on how you select it, so you'll get familiar with how to select areas with the Magic Wand tool in the next exercise. The Selection Brush tool enables you to select any of the available shapes such as rectangular or elliptical paths in the options.

history of an ineffective assistance of counsel, he must show that he received deficient representation and that he was prejudiced by the deficiency. Strickland v. Washington, 466 U.S. 668, 687 (1984). As such, claims of ineffective assistance of counsel involve mixed questions of law and fact, which we review de novo. State v. Carter, 113 Hawaii 562, 571, 156 P.3d 168, 177 (2007). Under the first prong, a defendant must overcome a strong presumption that his counsel's representation fell within the range of reasonable, professional assistance. Id. To prove deficient representation, the defendant must demonstrate that the attorney's actions were "not a product of an informed 3 JONES—ARMY 20150880 strategy decision, but was the result of unreasonable errors in judgment or unreasonable mistakes in professional competence." Id. at 571–72, 156 P.3d at 177. Under the second prong, the defendant must show that there is "a reasonable probability that, but for counsel's unprofessional errors, the result of the proceeding would have been different." Id. at 572, 156 P.3d at 177 (quoting Strickland, 466 U.S. at 694). We conclude appellant has failed to meet the first prong of the Strickland test because he has not demonstrated that his defense counsel's performance was deficient, as discussed infra. Therefore, we need not address the second prong. Appellant alleges he is entitled to relief due to ineffective assistance of counsel in his defense counsel's failure to convey to appellant the plea offer that the government extended the week before trial. ♦

What's New In Neon Light Painting Photoshop Action Free Download?

Countdown to Fyre Festival Is the Fyre Festival dead? We spend millions of dollars each year covering the launches, commercial spaceflights, and launches of privately owned rockets in hopes of uncovering at least a few eccentric billionaire entrepreneurs and giant rockets. We like to think we're a fair-minded publication. However, we have to admit that we're pretty cynical when it comes to the overwhelming amount of hype surrounding this past weekend's Fyre Festival. We originally titled this story "Countdown to Fyre Festival," but then we realized that making fun of a bunch of rich people and their bad music is lame. So instead we're going to simply say, "Countdown to Fyre Festival," which is our journalistic version of "Countdown to 9/11" or "Countdown to Armageddon." The following video segment originally appeared on The Fray: The Gralien Report started out with a press release. . . . and it's not even fake. By Larry G. Gordon, President, The Gralien Report The Gralien Report is pleased to announce that the Fyre Festival, set to occur in the Bahaman Islands on April 27, 2017, is trending on social media, with over half a million people currently following the event on Twitter. As the editors of this publication, we take our responsibilities to be fair and balanced extremely seriously. We check every claim made by even the smallest and most insignificant parties, and then we apply the filters of logic, reason, and good sense. We are hard-working journalists who have been involved in many aspects of the spaceflight and rocket launch communities for the past several decades. We are sure that no readers of The Gralien Report would want us to even consider writing about a scam that they wouldn't approve of. If they would, they would have responded to the press release about this totally fraudulent event. Since no one did, we would have to conclude that no one reads this publication, and decided to instead send out a press release to the New York Post, who are already completely in on the Fyre Festival scam. This obviously confirms what we've been saying: Rocket launch technology is a dying industry. It seems that rocket companies are not willing to invest the millions of dollars it takes to produce and test a rocket, because they know
