H~L A: It is not entirely clear whether there are any other digit than the H or L or whether the number is valid without any digits or in which case the number is entirely composed of 0s, but assuming there is no other digit and the number is valid without digits the number seems to be a variant of the short code +9314. Q: How to pass same variable in different Activity? First time using Android Studio and learning Java. I am trying to pass the same variable from one Activity to another. To do this I am passing a variable from an activity to another in an Intent. I can do it for a single variable, but when I try to pass multiple variables I get a problem. I get the following error: java.lang.RuntimeException: Parcelable encountered IOException writing serializable object (name = name) How would I pass multiple variables, say, in an Array? In the first activity I am calling a method to get the user credentials in an EditText and then I put them in an intent to send to the second activity. In the second activity I am calling the credentials, pulling

Evaluation of a Raman spectrochemical assay for lidocaine in neonatal blood and plasma. We performed a single-laboratory evaluation of a Raman spectrochemical assay for lidocaine in neonatal blood and plasma. Lidocaine concentrations were measured in venous plasma samples obtained from 40 patients, with and without lidocaine dosage. Correlation between lidocaine concentrations measured by the spectrochemical assay and traditional microbiological assay (conducted only in the 15 patients who also had blood culture) was also investigated. Lidocaine concentrations for lidocaine-treated patients (n = 24) were greater than in untreated patients (n = 16; P
