Legend Of The Dragon's Avatar The last of the Draco. He is his father's son and his father-father. Nothing can harm him and he knows how to take care of himself. Gandalfan Fallen Gandalfan The main story is a little different from the other stories. I can say that -I fell down when I was listening to the voice of Jonathen. It was like that, that when I listen to the voice of the narrator, I think that I'm watching a screen, but it is not a screen, it is Jonathen himself. He speaks directly in the air... Bent Bilbo Gandalf When I decided to create this story (I created also another one: Too Many Thanks for showing them all the way), the main idea I had in mind was to create a silly, but yet important, story: about a world who is suffering from lack of imagination, and about the power of imagination as a tool to defeat the evil of the world. I especially wanted that the story ends with... Old Gandalf Old Gandalf The nature of the story is that my main character is an old, mute Gandalfan, who has just returned from a long and bad trip in the Dark Lands. The old Gandalf, who was born before the World War, has always known about the evil that exists in the world, but he was too old to do something for the world. The only thing he was able to do is to know the Truth, so that he can help the world while it is still possible. He... Old Gandalf In my "Dragon's Avatar" series, I tried to do a retelling of the story of Gandalf, but this time as a Dragon. The main idea is to portray the struggles of a Dragon's Avatar, and how he uses the power of imagination, as a soul, as a weapon against evil. The main story also has an important message, but I cannot reveal it, because it is for the end. I think that the message of the story is the same that my other stories have: that the only thing that can stop the evil of the world is the ability to see the true path, and that can come only from a wise and brave person.
