: function subtractScore(currentElement, currentElementValue, andElement, andElementValue){ return (currentElement - currentElementValue) - (andElement - andElementValue); } function diffScore(currentElement, currentElementValue, andElement, andElementValue){ return (currentElement - currentElementValue) - (andElement - andElementValue); }
```

I need to combine these functions to result in one. How can i call the first one if the second one has positive value and the second one if the first one has negative value? A: You could have a scoreboard that accumulates the values, like this: var scoreboard

```
= { currentElement : 0, currentElementValue : 0, andElement : 0, andElementValue : 0 } function subtractScore(currentElement, currentElementValue, andElement, andElementValue){ scoreboard.currentElement += (currentElement - currentElementValue); } function diffScore(currentElement, currentElementValue, andElement, andElementValue){ scoreboard.currentElement += (currentElement - currentElementValue); }
```
