I/O View gives a register overview of the target device for the current project, serving as a quick reference during design. When debugging, a live view of the registers is displayed and bits can be directly manipulated for fast hardware verification. For AMD Xilinx embedded devices, the Vitis target platform also includes the operating system for the processor on the platform, boot loader and drivers for platform peripherals, and root file system. You can use predefined Vitis target platforms for AMD Xilinx evaluation boards or define your own in the Vivado Design Suite. For AMD Xilinx embedded devices, the Vivado Design Suite has a predefined target platform that can be used to evaluate evaluation boards without performing any additional setup or design flow. Or, for the Vivado Design Suite 2018 version, you can use your own, which will save you the time it takes to build and test your design. Vivado Design Suite 2018 imposes no time limits for a 3D solid model workbench. By integrating DWG, PDF, JPG, DWF, BMP, PNG and file import modules, it allows you to use a common file format without any conversion, and for most files, no processing is required. Vivado Design Suite 2015 and 2016 installation updates and new features, including new support for multi-core CPUs and mobile devices, one-click compatibility to best practices in OpenCL, and the full suite can now be searched and downloaded from DeveloperWorks . A full list of the updates is available on the forums page. Students and professors in select global markets can download a free educational license of Vectorworks Design Suite software, which includes all the capabilities of Architect, Landmark, and Spotlight. For students and professors in the entertainment industry, the Braceworks, ConnectCAD, and Vision add-ons are also available.
