the air flowing out of any given grand canyon outlet is moving at the extremely slow rate of about a mile per hour, which makes the canyon a paradise for bird-watchers: the guano created by millions of birds will cover a vast area in no time. very few human beings are able to spend weeks in the wilds, exposed to these elements, without succumbing to heat and humidity as well. this is the description of yvon chouinard, the founder and former owner of patagonia, the outdoor apparel company that established the backpacking club. like man's evolution from catastrophism to teleological argument to evolutionism, i can also look back in time to where we were when i was born. had humans, without spiritualism, accepted evolution, i might have been a miserable, overfed family man who did not know how to make one good thing. instead, i have been granted the ability to change the world and in the short time i have been alive, i have tried to do this. take a break from your all-nighter; try a little rest and relaxation. if you have not read my previous posts, you will be compelled to start reading. then you can read about how tim schafer created my favorite game, double fine adventure. visitors can prepare a family for one of the best wildlife-watching experiences in the world, through the most comprehensive and up-to-date presentation available. the park offers an educational overview of the 10,000 plant and animal species that call glacier national park home. wilderness permits are required and must be booked in advance at http://www.recreation.gov/about-recreation/ wilderness-permits/ . photo identification may also be required. for more information about glacier, please call (406) 888-7800 or visit the park website: https://www.nps.gov/glac/glac.htm .
